

Complete Nonsense

By Anton Chekhov

Klimov was a man who was constantly plagued by absurd and nonsensical events. One day, he woke up to find his bed floating in the air. Another day, he went to the kitchen to make breakfast and found that his stove was filled with water. And one evening, he was walking home from work when he was suddenly attacked by a swarm of bees.

Complete Nonsense by Anton Chekhov

★★★★☆ 4.5 out of 5

Language : English

File size : 9279 KB

Text-to-Speech : Enabled

Screen Reader : Supported

Enhanced typesetting : Enabled

Word Wise : Enabled

Print length : 242 pages

Lending : Enabled

FREE

DOWNLOAD E-BOOK

Klimov was at his wit's end. He didn't know what to do or who to turn to. He went to see a doctor, but the doctor just laughed at him and told him to go home and get some rest.

Desperate, Klimov went to see a priest. The priest listened to Klimov's story and then said, "My son, you are being punished for your sins." Klimov was shocked. He had always been a good man. He had never done anything to deserve such punishment.

"What sins?" Klimov asked. The priest sighed and said, "I cannot tell you that. But I can tell you that you must repent for your sins and ask for forgiveness." Klimov was even more confused. He didn't know what sins he had committed, but he was willing to do anything to make them right.

The priest gave Klimov a long list of penances to perform. Klimov was to fast for three days, pray for four hours each day, and give all of his money to the poor. Klimov followed the priest's instructions faithfully. He fasted, prayed, and gave away all of his money.

But even after he had completed all of his penances, the absurd and nonsensical events continued to happen. Klimov was starting to lose hope. He didn't know what else he could do. He had repented for his sins, but the punishment continued.

One day, Klimov was walking through the park when he saw a group of children playing. The children were laughing and having fun. Klimov watched them for a while, and then he realized something. The children were not being punished for their sins. They were simply enjoying life.

Klimov decided that he was going to stop worrying about his punishment and start enjoying life. He went home and ate a big meal. He went to the movies and saw a funny film. And he went to bed feeling happy and content.

The next day, Klimov woke up to find that his bed was no longer floating in the air. His stove was no longer filled with water. And he was no longer being attacked by swarms of bees.

Klimov had finally found peace. He had stopped worrying about his punishment and started enjoying life. And the absurd and nonsensical events had stopped.

The moral of the story is that we should not dwell on our problems. We should focus on the good things in life and enjoy ourselves. If we do that, our problems will eventually disappear.

Complete Nonsense by Anton Chekhov

★★★★☆ 4.5 out of 5

- Language : English
- File size : 9279 KB
- Text-to-Speech : Enabled
- Screen Reader : Supported
- Enhanced typesetting : Enabled
- Word Wise : Enabled
- Print length : 242 pages
- Lending : Enabled

Clean(ish) Food for People Who Like to Eat Dirty

By: [Your Name] Are you tired of feeling guilty about your food choices? Do you crave delicious, satisfying meals but worry about the health...

The Handbook for Educators: A Comprehensive Guide to Teaching and Learning

The Handbook for Educators is a comprehensive resource for educators of all levels, from preschool to higher education. This handbook provides essential...